MESSRS. FULTON & PRICE: You are aware that members of our State Legislature are to be elected next August : also, a Sheriff for the county. It is uncertain whether the former members of the Legislature will consent to become candidates for re-election; but be that as it may, there is one vacancy, occasioned by the absence of Mr. Ashe, now member of Congress. It is usual, I believe, when vacancies occur, that a County Convention selects suitable persons to fill them. This has been the practice of the Democratic party for years past; and I presume that a Convention will be held some time this Spring, when candidates will be nominated. This plan has been adopted to obtain the concentration of action, and it may be important, in the present instance, that we should adhere to it. In the election of Sheriff, however, the Democrats of this county have never heretofore thought fit to make any nomination by Convention, for the reason that there never has been any apprehension of the election of a person of opposite politics to fill that important office. It is now well known, that our worthy fellow-citizen, Owen Fennell, Esq., who has so ably and impartially discharged the duties of that office for a series of years, will not again consent to become a candidate. His retiring is regretted by the whole county; for, although the county may be provided with as efficient an officer, that office cannot be better filled, by a more amiable man, or abler officer.
